WHAT ARE CYCLORES ?- The word cyclone has frequently, but incorrectly, been used as significant of an enormous or very violent meteor, as if its application was to be confined to the devastating hurricane of the West Indies, or the terrific typhoon of the China seas. It simply means a storm which acts in a circular direction, and whose winds converge, by radials or sinuous spirals, toward a centre, moving in our hemisphere in the opposite direction to that of the hands of a clock, and in the Southern bemisphere in a contrary direction. Taking this as the definition of a cyclone, it seems clear from observation alone that all storms are to be regarded as cyclonic. Volumes have been written to prove that this is not the case. But we have only to examine a few series of weather-maps from week to week to see that, wherever you have an area of low barometer into its central hollow the exterior atmosphere from all sides will pour, and that in so doing a rotary spiral or verticose storm is generated.
